Manufactured by an FDA registered medical device company
Personal Comfort® has set the industry standard by combining the highest quality materials and state-of-the-art technology into something as simple as a mattress.

Certified foam components
The Personal Comfort® bed is made up of certified foam materials. When you see the CertiPUR-US® seal, you can be confident that the flexible polyurethane foam inside meets CertiPUR-US® standards for content, emissions, and durability, and has been analyzed by independent, accredited testing laboratories.
Setup and installation

Assembling your number bed is quick and easy
Depending on the model and type of shipping services you requested, your Personal Comfort® bed may require assembly and arrive in several boxes or fully assembled in one box. If you purchased an adjustable bed base with your order or White Glove delivery, your mattress may also be delivered fully assembled. On average, the Personal Comfort® mattress takes around half an hour to fully assemble. For your convenience, you may visit personalcomfortbed.com to download printable instructions and watch our assembly videos by visiting the assembly instructions section of our website.

Connecting your air control unit and hand controllers
Before you plug in your air control unit, we highly recommend using a surge protector (Note: this is not included in your shipment). A surge protector will protect your air control unit and electronics from damage caused by a power surge or a lighting strike, which is not covered by the 25-year limited warranty.

NOTE: Your air control unit and hand controllers should arrive pre-calibrated to your mattress size. If you are having trouble with the air control unit or hand controllers, we suggest you re-calibrate your system. Something not working? Wrong size? Pump or controller problems? Please call customer service: 1-888-694-4088.
Air control unit and hand control operation

Adjusting your sleep setting
It’s quick and easy to adjust the comfort of your number bed. Your digital hand control will allow you to adjust the mattress from 5 to 50 in single digit increments, giving you precise control of the Personal Comfort® bed.

How to determine your ideal sleep setting
While lying on the mattress in your preferred sleeping position, use the hand control to adjust the mattress firmness to find your desired level of comfort and support. While adjusting to your comfort setting, the air control unit will turn on and off as it measures the pressure between your body and the air chamber. This is normal as the air control unit continues to check the pressure in order to get an exact reading. Once the hand control has reached the desired sleep setting, the digital display will dynamically read and display the internal pressure of the air chamber or chambers.

Quick Tip: Start at the maximum number bed sleep setting of 50, then go down until you find your most comfortable setting.

Quick Tip: Touch any button to wake up the display.

Digital display (5 to 50)

Firmer (Touch to activate, then tap or hold)

Softer (Touch to activate, then tap or hold)

Two memory settings (Touch, then hold, to memorize. Wait until display flashes). Touch to activate, then tap for previous memory setting (Pump will auto adjust).

Wake up display (Touch to activate hand control)

Mattress Care

Mattress cover care
The mattress bottom, center and top panels of your Personal Comfort® mattress can easily unzip to be professionally dry cleaned. Do not attempt to wash the cover pieces yourself, as some of the materials and/or stitching may shrink. If you have a stain, please have a professional clean it. Do not apply over the counter stain remover as it may yellow the fabric.

Extending the life of your mattress
We carry a line of waterproof mattress protectors that will help protect against stains, bed bugs, wear and tear, moisture and allergens. They are constructed of a breathable fabric and will preserve your investment for many years to come. We highly recommend investing in a mattress protector to increase the life of your new Personal Comfort® bed.

Moving Your Personal Comfort® Sleep System
Your Personal Comfort® bed’s proprietary construction makes moving your mattress simple and easy. You may have to disassemble a portion of the mattress to relocate it however many of our customers feel there is no need for disassembly of any kind, since your Personal Comfort® bed zips up into a one-piece mattress.

Before moving your mattress, fill the air chambers to their maximum setting to prevent components from moving or shifting inside your mattress. Next, unhook the Insta-Connect™ hose from the air pump and remove controllers. We recommend boxing up the air pump and controllers in their original box to prevent possible damage while transporting your sleep system. Additionally, wrapping your mattress with plastic before transporting will provide protection from potential damage and staining.
Troubleshooting

Personal Comfort® Number Bed Mattress

Foam expansion time frame
Please allow 30 to 60 minutes for full expansion.

Wrong size rails, they look too long or too short, or they don’t fit
If the distance between your side rails appears to be too short, please flip them over from left to right and try again. They may be upside down. The rails should not be folded over any fabric. Please visit personalcomfortbed.com and click on troubleshooting for a video.

Mattress slopes to the edge or to the middle
Sloping is generally caused by air chambers that are misplaced or misaligned. You may need to reposition your air chambers. To do so, deflate your mattress to half capacity. Unzip the top and/or center panel to expose the air chambers and reposition them toward the middle by pushing them together and straight. Make sure they are not constricted by any other foam pieces as well. They should have a very snug fit when properly aligned.

Bulges or lumps across the mattress after assembly
Occasionally, comfort layers can bunch inside the mattress. You may need to readjust them. To do so, unzip your mattress top panel to expose your comfort layers. Adjust the comfort layers so there is an even distribution of foam over your air chambers. You may have to completely remove them to reposition properly.

Personal Comfort number bed feels like it’s losing air
Disconnect your air control unit from your surge protector. Wait for 30 seconds and plug your air control unit back into the surge protector. Then follow the steps below.

One side of mattress is losing air throughout the night
Our air chambers have a one-way valve system and should not experience any air loss from your number bed mattress. In the rare event that a component may cause a leak, you are covered by the 25-year limited warranty. To start diagnosing the issue, please check all connections between the air chambers and the air controller. Disconnect each fitting and examine the black O-ring for any damage. Lubricate with a non-petroleum based lubricant like mineral oil or vegetable oil (do not use Vaseline). Reconnect the fittings and make sure you hear a “click” sound when the fitting is secured. To help identify leak origination, try switching hose connections at the air controller. Re-inflate mattress and note which side of the bed (air chamber) deflates over time. Please note: it may take a full sleep cycle to determine where the leak resides. If the leak switched to the other side of the mattress (other air chamber), your air control unit may need to be repaired/replaced. If the leak stayed on the same side of the mattress, your air chamber and/or fitting may need to be repaired/replaced. Please call customer service at 1-888-694-4088.
Body impressions versus under inflation
If you still feel that your mattress has a body impression after you have fully inflated your mattress, please check for leaks. If there are no leaks, you may want to unzip and remove the mattress top panel and realign the comfort layers to redistribute the material where you are experiencing the body impression. Compression over time is considered normal wear.

“New car smell” new fabric and material odors
Your brand new mattress is manufactured only days before it ships. You may notice a “new car” smell coming from the mattress, and this is normal. This smell will fade overtime, generally within a few days. You may wish to unzip your center panel and/or top panel and let your mattress air out during the day when it is not in use. A simple trick is to take a few dryer sheets and lay them on top of the air chambers to relieve any odor with a fresh laundry scent.

Hand Control and Air Control Unit

Air control unit doesn’t turn on or has stopped working
Make sure you have power to your surge protector and your air controller system. Check to see if the surge protector is plugged into an outlet that has power and is not connected to an on/off wall switch. If the electrical outlet is controlled by a switch, make sure the switch is in the ON position. To verify that your air pump system has power, the hand control units must be plugged into the air control unit. The hand controls will illuminate when the air controller is connected to a power source. If the air control unit still does not turn on, please contact customer service at 1-888-694-4088.

Changes and fluctuations of a sleep setting
Some slight fluctuations in your number bed sleep setting are normal. For accuracy, always set your number bed sleep setting while you’re laying in bed. Temperature and atmospheric changes may slightly affect your sleep setting.

Hand control displays do not turn on or are not working
Make sure your hand controls are properly plugged into the air controller. Make sure the power cord is completely inserted in the receptacle on the back of the air control unit. Make sure you have power to your surge protector and to your air control unit.

Power outage and number bed functionality
In the event of a power outage, your air chambers should remain inflated and your mattress should stay at the same sleep setting, including memory settings.

Personalization of your sleep system

Patented reversible “top panel” mattress cover
You’ll find the reversible mattress cover top panel available only on Personal Comfort® bed, models A5 through A10. The versatility of the patented design provides a sleeping surface with a two-sided option. Some models even come with two different materials, giving you a summer and winter (or spring and fall) side to sleep on. We call this a seasonal cover. Having the ability to utilize both sides of your reversible top panel helps increase the lifespan of the sleeping surface. We recommend flipping your top panel every 6 months. You can also easily sanitize your mattress cover top panel as needed by having it professionally dry cleaned. The reversible top panel is only available on the Advanced and Elegance series models.

2-Zone™ complete personalization
When you order a Queen, King or California King sized Personal Comfort® number bed, each person will have the ability to individually personalize their side of the mattress to their desired level support. The “2-Zone™” technology consists of a left and right zone within the mattress.

Personalized comfort and support
You can easily upgrade the comfort foam layers, bottom panel, center panel and top panels at any time for the life of your mattress. Our Classic series models can even be upgraded to our Elegance series with ease.

Go from this...  ...to this!
Improve your lifestyle with a Personal Comfort number bed

Give your body time to adjust
It can take anywhere from several nights to a few weeks for your body to adjust to your new sleeping surface, especially if you’re trying different sleep settings to determine your ideal comfort. When you’ve found a sleep setting that you feel offers you the ideal combination of both comfort and support, program this sleep setting into the memory feature of the hand control. Try sleeping at this setting for a minimum of five (5) nights. After five nights, evaluate your sleep experience and if necessary, adjust your Personal Comfort® bed to a firmer or softer setting. Repeat the process until you’ve found the perfect level of comfort and support. We recommend starting at a higher number and working your way down. Some common sleep settings most people are comfortable at range between 15-25.

Proper spinal alignment
It’s very important to keep your spine in a neutral position while sleeping. Owning a number bed allows you to adjust your level of support depending on what position you sleep in. The images below show what can happen if you over-inflate or under-inflate your number bed. We highly recommend that you take the time to find what is comfortable for you and your body. Please call us if you have any questions.

Reasons to alter your ideal sleep setting
Once you’ve found your ideal sleep setting, you should be able to experience a deep, restorative level of sleep. However, you may need to adjust your sleep setting for any of the following reasons:

- Strained or pulled muscles
- Back pain
- Weight change
- Pregnancy
- Sunburn
- New sleep position
- To get in and out of bed easier
- To give bed a “full” appearance
